

Twitter QI leaders

FOR CLINICAL AUDIT AND QI PROFESSIONALS

The Clinical Audit Support Centre love the work of the following 6 quality improvement gurus/teams who are regular users of Twitter

HELEN BEVAN

@helenbevan

Helen is currently Chief Transformation Officer, Horizons, NHS England. She is known for her leadership role of large-scale change in the NHS and wider improvement initiatives. Helen is an active user of Twitter and shares lots of useful information with over 18,000 followers!

MARK GRABAN

@MarkGraban

Mark is based in the US and is an internationally recognised consultant, blogger and author. His books on improving quality in healthcare include 'Lean Hospitals' and 'Healthcare Kaizen'. He gives a broad international perspective on quality improvement and has over 15,000 followers.

SAMANTHA RILEY

@samriley

Sam Riley is Head of Improvement Analytics at NHS Improvement. In recent times she has championed her #plotthedots initiative to encourage teams to measure for improvement. Her work is gaining momentum and she has a loyal following of over 3,000 twitter users.

ACADEMY OF FAB STUFF

@FabNHSStuff

As its name rightly suggests, the Academy of Fab NHS Stuff is the place to share and showoff your fab work. Lots of inspiring materials and information shared via regular tweets. A source of inspiration and ideas. Also a great place to connect with over 20,000 twitter followers!

SCHOOL OF CHANGE AGENTS

@Sch4Change

The School for Change Agents is part of the Horizons Group within NHS England (see Helen Bevan above), @Sch4change offer e-learning, webinars and resources. Offering a variety of radical solutions to over 8,000 followers.

THE Q COMMUNITY

@theQcommunity

The Q Community is a movement of people led by the Health Foundation and NHS Improvement. The aim is to connect leaders in healthcare improvement. Invaluable webinars and fantastic discussions with over 7,000 followers to date.